

Price gap on the Market Opening may be on any of the following situations:

- Bid price of opened market is more than Ask price of closed market;
- Ask price of opened market is less than Bid price of closed market.

At the opening of the market, the price gap rather frequent, especially in the low volatile currency pairs. This is due to changes in the markets because of the potential for important news, fundamental or speculative major transactions carried out by large banks or funds.